

First Presbyterian Church, Corvallis, Oregon Pastoral Search

First Presbyterian Church of Corvallis is seeking a Stated Supply Pastor as we continue our ‘Season of Renewal’ over the next one to two years. Our transition began as we sought where God would lead us following the COVID pandemic. Subsequently, the departure of our pastors has allowed for a more comprehensive reflection of congregational strengths and examination of how we can best bring those strengths to meet the spiritual needs of our congregation and community. A Stated Supply Pastor would energize spiritual growth, teaching and service; and provide leadership as we discern the path forward.

We are a welcoming, affirming and intergenerational community. As a Matthew 25 congregation, we embrace all persons in God’s grace and love. We value whole person spiritual growth through study, spiritual/contemplative practices, service, stewardship, creative worship experiences, and nature. Intergenerational education is highly valued. As we reestablished in-person teaching, the creation of PODs, small groups for individuals with specific interests, has helped to facilitate personal growth and strengthen bonds across our church community. Opportunities for spiritual growth and fulfillment have been diverse and included retreats, centering prayer, Reiki, meditation, yoga, and installation of a permanent labyrinth.

We believe music is central to our efforts to share God’s grace with others. Music is an integral part of our worship and outreach. Whether through our choir, jazz band, bell choir, accomplished musicians within the congregation, or sponsoring outside music programming; music is an important and expected gift we share with our community.

We express our faith through loving service to our congregation and community. Congregational members readily share their talents and gifts within and outside the church. The church hosts a long-established Presbyterian Preschool / Child Care Center, and a drop in play area. Most recently, we were involved helping to create and support a mental health ministry serving the Willamette Valley. This effort continues to be supported as a non-profit organization hosted at a reduced rent in the former manse of the church.

Our Season of Renewal began with a ‘Reimagining committee’ commissioned by Session to engage the congregation in a reflection process on our strengths, opportunities, and challenges. The initial phase of this effort is complete. We seek a Stated Supply Pastor to provide leadership and partner with the congregation in discerning how we can utilize this understanding to best express God’s path for us going forward.

First Presbyterian Church is located in Corvallis, Oregon. Corvallis is a community of approximately 60,000 and home to Oregon State University. Primary industries are the university, health care, and high-tech corporations, but Corvallis is surrounded by rural farming and forest industries. Located in the mid-Willamette Valley, one can reach the Pacific Coast or Cascade Mountains within a 90-minute drive.

First Presbyterian Church is in the downtown area and includes a historic main building, with more recent education and fellowship wings. The building is used by many local organizations for meetings. The Sanctuary has a beautiful Steinway piano and a pipe organ and is a favored location for performances.
